MINETY THOUSAND IN THIS ESTATE

Bumming Emmitsburg Will Case to Arbitration. Son Claims Big Sum as his Share in Business. Attracting Attention.

While Gettysburg takes interest in the Runkel will case, people living in the western parts of this county and in Emmitsburg are watching closely the adjustment of a will in which $90,000 is involved.

The report of the Board of Arbitrators expected to settle disputes arising over the estate of the late James T. Hays, of near Emmitsburg, was made on Friday.

The arbitrators were Chief Judge John C. Bowen and Associate Judges Albert W. Ecker and John C. Motter, of the Orphans Court, at Frederick, who were clothed with the power to arbitrate under an agreement between all of the parties interested. The agreement was made containing the provision that the arbitrators were to decide all matters according to justice and right.

The Hays estate is valued at about $90,000. Mr. Hays lived at Emmitsburg and conducted a large plumbing business. He died on March 18, 1913, aged not quite 80 years. A son, Thomas C. Hays, the administrator, filed a claim of $24,000 against the estate, claiming it was his share of the business conducted by his father and himself. Witnesses were heard on Friday on some of the questions involved.

E. L. Rowe and M. G. Urner, Sr., represent the administrator and A. G. McLanahan, of Greencastle, and Stoner and Weinberg, represent Mrs. Lizzie Sherry, of Greencastle, a sister of the administrator.

TO ABOLISH OFFICE

Adams County Highway Directing Force to be Transferred.

The office of the state highway department will be covering Adams, York and Lancaster counties under Assistant Engineer Edward S. Freeman, to be abolished, it is reported.

The first move toward the discontinuance of the office there was the order several days ago, resulting seven employes from York office to Harrisburg. This left Engineer Frey without any force assistants, Charles E. Rankin, Chester Griffith and Earl Cole.

The action of Commissioner Bigelow, which was officially explained, yesterday, indicates that it is a general policy of greater economy in his department. The expense of the district office has been heavy and it is proposed, it is said, to undertake to administer to the same territory more economically from some adjacent district or district.

It is not known what action will be taken regarding the employes remaining in the York office in the event of its abolishment. It has been rumored that there will be a reduction in the highway force, and political influence has been brought to bear with in the past few days in behalf of one or more of these in the York office.

THE TWO REVIVALS

Both Congregations Hear Powerful Sermons.

The hold which certain religious songs will take upon a community was demonstrated on Thursday evening when at both revival services "The Old Ninety and Nine" was sung by request. The hymn was first heard here last winter and ever since then has been favorite. Dr. and Mrs. Oyler sang it at the Methodist church upon request Thursday night, and Miss Pauline Rudisill and Jacob Rudisill sang it at St. James. Mrs. R. E. Zinn sang "The Light of the World is Jesus" at the latter service.

These services continued their convention at the Methodist service Thursday night and two requested prayer. Dr. Oyler preached an earnest sermon on "Have You Touched Christ?" and his subject this evening will be "God's Call to Youth", being addressed especially to the school children of town for whom a special section will be reserved. Miss Nellie Swartz, of New Oxford, will be here next week to assist in the service.

Rev. J. B. Baker preached in St. James church Thursday evening on the text "Bless the Lord O Ye Ministers." This evening will be Christian Endeavor night and members of the society will have a section of seats reserved for them. Cottage prayer meetings are held daily in various parts of town. There will be service in St. James church Saturday evening.

Most Ancient of Tipples.

The most ancient of all intoxicating beverages was made from barley malt, oil seeds and allowed to ferment. The drink still is the favorite tipple of the Tartar.

WOULD INCREASE CONSTABLES' FEES

Adams County Men Interested in Dauphin County Court Decision which would Yield them Considerably More Revenue.

Adams county constables are financially interested in a suit now by a prominent attorney of Dauphin County in which the officer got a verdict for $958 in back fees. Not long ago, we are informed, a rule of similar nature was decided in favor of a constable and costs were imposed upon the county.

The Dauphin County court has decided in Commonwealth vs. Dauphin County that the constable's claim for fees and mileage incident to subpoenaing witnesses and committing defendants to the county jail, as charged under the Act of 1895 are legitimate and must be paid.

Prior to 1895 and its new legislation regulating fees of constables county commissioners generally paid the constables fees under the old fee bill laws, allowing them 10 cents for subpoenaing the first witness and 5 cents for each succeeding witness in a case, with mileage at 6 cents a mile.

Dauphin county officers had been subpoenaing the first and 50 cents for each succeeding witness and 10 cents a mile.

Adams County has been paying under the old system.

The decision if it is not reversed by the Supreme Court means that $5,000 and will be made apply to other counties of the State as well.

FIRST SALE

Recent Quarantine Has Little Effect on Stock Price.

The first of the spring sales, and the first sale held in Adams County for many weeks, was conducted on the farm of Clarence J. Millhouse in Straban township on Thursday. Farmers generally were anxious to see what prices stock would bring in view of recent conditions and the attempts to eradicate the foot and mouth disease. Good figures were realized in all cases, considering the bad and little effect of the recent quarantine was noticeable.

The total amount of the sale was $1,627.21. The best horse sold for $165 and the best cow for $75. A sow, weighing from 80 to 100 pounds, brought from $7 to $7.75. G. W. Thomas called the sale and Mackley and Sheffer were the clerks. Mr. Millhouse has the sale to reduce his stock and will remain on the farm.

First Branded Table Knives.

During the first half of the seventeenth century Cardinal Richelieu, the founder of the French Academy, became offended at his rude manner in which pointed knives were used and thereafter caused his knives to be rounded. Before long the fashion was generally adopted, and the pointed blade, which, in lieu of a fork, had been used to pick up pieces of meat, was abandoned. Since the seventeenth century the fashion of knife has maintained substantially as we know it.

Cherish Enthusiasm.

Faithful work and enthusiasm even it enthusiasm is lacking, but no man, makes a permanent success without bringing to his task order as well as enthusiasm. Order is the life of the law in its outcome are essential to a high grade of achievement. Cherish your enthusiasms. Try to succeed without them is as foolish as to row one behind your back and see what you can accomplish with the other.

Ventilate the Bedroom.

Sleep with the bedroom window wide open. The old superstition that sight air is unhealthy even for an invalid is entirely false. On the contrary, light air, especially in large cities, is purer and better than day air, because it contains less dust and fewer microbes. To get the best results from have the window open on both top and bottom.

POWER OF COTTON SAY THEY BURNED PUBLIC RECORDS

It Reaches All People and Round the Whole World.

MAN'S MASTER AND SERVANT.

This Staple is the Basis of High Explosives and Smokeless Powder and Without It Not a Modern Big Gun Could Be Fired—Its Numerous Uses.

Cotton is employed all over the world and is the master and the servant of all the people. Without cotton not a modern gun could be fired. Cotton is the basis of high explosives and of smokeless powder, and the warship of tomorrow will need more cotton than is used by the frigate of a century ago. Cotton is used in the manufacture of a film of cotton cloth across a few inches of the gun's back. This acetic acid per cubic his duck soil with cotton and ignites the powder behind it than for.

The soldier, therefore, that cotton touches all the world, and its uses are manifold. Clothing is made out of many points of cotton. Did you ever see a cotton crop? Perhaps you did, for cotton is nothing but a cultivated weed. The most useful cultivated thing weed be so useful as the first witness and.

Cotton seen has its uses in the automobile. Cotton is used in the production of that enamel is cotton and cotton is used in the manufacture of cotton yards of cotton cloth is also used in the manufacture of the Ford. Fords and 4,000,000 yards for the 10 years in the United States and exports to the consumer.

The cotton cloth thinks only of shoots and pillow cases and dress goods and they are anxious to see such things are relatively unimportant compared with the great importance of cotton for other purposes. The million bales of cotton that the United States use more than 250,000 bales of the cloth, and the remaining 750,000 bales chain, leather seats and air cushions. The cotton manufactures of about 400,000 bales a year. Most of it is used in the cotton cloth. Cotton is the essential feature of the tires, the cotton cloth is used in the shoes, and seats.

The most important individual contract for cotton goods is the world is the contract for cotton cloth for the manufacture of harvester machine companies. It calls for millions of yards of cotton cloth for the consumption for the entire harvesting machine business and cotton cloth at above 50,000,000 yards of duck year. The cotton cloth used in the harvester machine companies. It calls for millions of yards of cotton cloth for the consumption for the entire harvesting machine business and cotton cloth at above 50,000,000 yards of duck year. The cotton cloth used in the harvester machine companies.

Cotton buns have displaced barrels to the great extent, and a few days ago one of the greatest sugar companies announced that the cotton bags and bags would be used exclusively. With cotton bags the sugar will be sold cheaper than barrels. It takes about 1,000,000 bales of cotton duck annually for cotton bags for delivering the coal where a cotton cotton bag is employed. Cotton duck is used extensively for ventilation. Cotton is used in the aeroplane have replaced other covers for the wings. Cotton is used in the Africa the cotton blanket has driven the woolen out.

Fully 20,000,000 yards annually of cotton duck are used in the U. S. for manufacturing horse covers, and 10,000,000 yards annually for covers between layers of duck, these gar- ment covers are made of cotton duck for. Cotton cloth has taken the place of wool upon the manufacture of cotton buns. Bleachers, made of cotton cloth, are used in the manufacture of one millions of yards of army duck annually for depacking water out of the cotton. Cotton duck 2,000,000 yards of cotton duck per year for ends of the cotton bales. Cotton duck annually to make feed bags for horses. Cotton duck annually is used for filtering oils—millions of yards of cotton duck.

It takes more than 50,000,000 yards every year of cotton duck for shoes, belting and rubber hose. The mine industries, in the production of the gasolines of gloves and leg- ging, tourist and gymnasium shoes, canopies for shower tents, where rubber formerly were used, and tennis shoes, hose and telescopes. About 4,000,000 yards annually are used in the manufacture.

Wood pulp paper mills and other paper mills use cotton duck. Cotton duck and duck due to the extent of millions of yards annually. Cotton wagons tops, cushions and waterproof cloth and thousands of yards for rubber mattresses.

This is the age of cotton. The world has achieved its greatest progress since 1861. Without invented the cotton gin Whitney cotton and the more stupendous of situation and tissues would be but a little compared with the paralysis that would result if cotton cotton other fabrics.

SAY THEY BURNED PUBLIC RECORDS

Charges against Indian School Officials Matter for Hearing before Federal Grand Jury. Tree Bills in Three Indictments.

Three true bills were found by a Federal Court grand jury against S. Ross Cornelius, chief clerk, and Moses Friedman, former superintendent of the Carlisle Indian School at Sunbury on Thursday. On one bill both are charged with destroying and burning government records in a manner that courts are found against each, charge by counsel. The indictment is based on a third Friedman alone is indicted charged with embezzling receipts from the sale of tickets at athletic games.

According to the first indictment, the two former Federal officials are charged with "wrongfully destroying and burning records and papers in the form of written receipts for moneys." The allegation covers twenty months which were given, it is charged, by S. J. Noel for the Carlisle Indian school accounts, which before then had been transferred by William H. Miller, financial clerk of the school, to Noel, chief clerk for use by road transportation. The indictment charges, the receipts of which are unknown because of the destruction of these receipts. The specific allegation is that these receipts were burned on or about the 20th day of June 1914.

Both are jointly indicted on four counts in the second indictment. It is alleged that it was their duty, the indictment says, to take care of moneys belonging to the students until such time as they were needed for payments on the expenses incurred by these students in traveling from their homes to remote parts of the United States to Carlisle.

These moneys are usually placed on deposit in the Carlisle Indian School with the Farmers' Trust Company, of Carlisle, according to the indictment, subject to withdrawal check by the individual students, to whom it is specifically charged, but only upon the written approval of the superintendent and supervision of the chief clerk, and that on June 20 they are charged with the safekeeping of this money.

Some of it, it is alleged, was appropriated by them. These alleged embezzlements are set out in the indictment as follows:

Sale to a student of 1 o'clock, rain coat, 50 cents; sale of 10 months on all sums over $5.

JAS. L. LOUTS T. SEYLAR.

Jas. Caldwell, Asst.
F. A. Miller, Clerk.

JANUARY COURT WILL BE BRIEF

Criminal List Likely to Dispose of in One Day while Few Civil Cases May be Heard. Two Expected to Plead Guilty.

January term of Court which opens on next Monday, January 20, promises to be of short duration, the lists of criminal and civil cases compiled by Clerk of the Court Olinger and by Prothonotary Mehring indicating either prompt settlement or postponement of a number of matters.

In criminal court the two cases of larceny brought against Jesse Martin by Jacob M. Hammert and A. F. Hendricks, are expected for trial but it is said that Martin is considering entering plea of guilty. Joseph Mc-Dannell, of near Virginia Mills, who was arrested some time ago by Constable Reed charged with selling liquor without a license, is also likely to plead guilty, it is said.

Strangers come in for their hearings before Adams County Court. Mike Jarosevic, a miner in Lehigh coal at the McIlhenny warehouse and C. Yonso on a charge of bagging in Liberty township. The former arrest was made by Chief of Police Emmons the latter by Sheriff Thompson. The case against George Thompson, another itinerant charged with bagging, has been disposed of, Thompson being released on costs before preliminary hearings.

Howard Dill, arrested recently on a false pretense charge, brought by Mervin S. Kennedy, is listed for trial, as is Louis Sipe on a survey of the peace charge preferred by Harry C. Albright.

Other cases are against Paul Krop, James Clyde Crist and Clyde Elder. The case against Crist is likely to be postponed.

Continued cases listed for trial next week are the following:

Com. vs. Harry Kiser, charged with larceny as bailee, on oath of Harry Stevens. Continued from November term.

Com. vs. Mary Weaver, charged with assault and battery on oath of Mary E. Weaver. Continued from August term.

Com. vs. William T. Colehouse, charged with assault and battery on oath of Joseph Colehouse. Continued from November term.

In civil cases it is said that the three cases brought by H. E. Rutter and J. P. Bream, administrators of the estate of H. J. Weller, deceased, against three insurance companies will be continued.

The case of Jacob Barner against the Western Maryland Railroad company has been settled. Other cases listed for trial and continued from August term are the following:

E. W. Scarrick vs J. G. Stower. Summons in action of trespass.

F. W. Kapper vs Edward A. Weaver, Amos Kapper W. Weaver, and George W. Weibert. Appeal from docket of Riley S. Bartich.

George W. Worley vs Reynolds Weaver. Appeal from the docket of V. J. Lilly.

INTO CONCRETE WALL

Damage Done to Canning Plant at Orrtanna.

The one end of the plant of the Orrtanna Canning Company was crumbled by a loaded freight car on Monday when the Western Maryland freight south was preparing to move the car from the company's switch. The brakes refused to work, owing to the wet rails, it is said, and the engine pushed the car over a bank of earth into the building which is of concrete. The wall fell in the path of the heavy car and the slate roof was considerably damaged. The work of removal proved to be a heavy task.

$5200 FOR REVIVAL

Biederwolf, Evangelist, to be Speaker at Hagerstown.

At a meeting in Hagerstown on Sunday of the Biederwolf evangelistic committee, which plans to hold a big evangelistic meeting in that city, with W. E. Biederwolf, an evangelist of the Sunday type, as its speaker, $5,200 was pledged toward the support of the meeting. The committee had asked for $6,000. All churches of the city are not included in the springtime Mr. Biederwolf tours. Biederwolf a year ago was at Chambersburg and held large meetings, resulting in hundreds of conversions.

STORIES THAT THRILL FROM BATTLEFIELDS OF EUROPE

Two Young Frenchwomen Poison Husbands to Save Lives of Garrison.

Correspondent in Trenton Tells How He Feels as Shells Whistle By.

SOME of the latest stories from the battle front in Europe include the following:

How two young Frenchwomen poisoned the husbands they loved to save the lives of the entire garrison has just been made known in Paris. The story comes from a provincial newspaper.

Rose and Marie Dupont, twins, were born and reared at Villaroch, a small village on the Lorraine frontier. In 1912 they married two students of chemistry named Clirbi and Mihaud, who had been in school with them because French citizens. The men brought a drug store at Villaroch.

Both sisters were most happy until July 31 when the husbands of the lands received a letter from across the frontier. Immediately both became nervous and asked their wives to go to their grandmothers home in Longwy until the situation cleared. The young women went to Longwy but found that their grandmother was not at home. They returned into the town day to Villaroch.

When they arrived at the drug store, it is related, they found it closed. Going through the back garden, they peered through the closed shutters and, to their amazement, saw their husbands talking in quite a friendly manner to two officers in French uniform.

The young women learned that a pact had been arranged between Clirbi and Wilhelm. They had stored a large shelle sitter the word "yes" as if it were spelled "yes," precisely like a Teutonic counterpart. Yesterday, when the shell was yesterday in-or it occurred to me that perhaps meant "I am coming to get you—you—you."

Pens What They Say.

In the cellar I tried to set down on a piece of paper words that would be heard by the people the shells were making. At the moment I thought I was cutting notes a literary item, but upon close examination the results did not seem very brilliant. But they were the only results I had and as I hope some across the ocean to get them they make, from what I read the experiences of a good deal of time.

The shell said, "I am coming to get you, and I am coming to get you now!" That part was in a kind of minor singing—hardly more than a murmur

GERMAN SOLDIER WHO HAS GROWN CAUTIOUS BY ACTUAL BOMB AT GUTSEN.

Then a whistle—very low and sighing as if the shell were trying variations on its theme.

Suddenly the tone became insolent and shrill. It was then that the shell trying small was audible. "I am now coming to get you," the shell added the highly humorous after thought. "Hunt your eyes and keep your ears!"

The "you" was a favorite word. I saw it the house. They were always, for they themselves had employed the pronoun. They were straight to the point of the gendarmes and tale of their shells. They were not fear of eyes. "We have killed our husbands!" they cried. "We wish to kill with you!"

But the effect slowly wept with these and kissed them, for I found that the plot had been craftily laid and that the sacrifice of the husbands had saved hundreds of French troops from death.

Songs the Shells Sing.

Considering the subject, not only from the world of literature, but from our treatay in the Bavarian camp, it seems my earnest belief that it is not the king of shells that makes a certain peculiar on the ears of the poor life, but their preliminary curvesation, says a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune.

For a shell is the most loquacious of derdeve. It can say more in ten seconds and say it in more ways than a certainly receptive mind would assimilate in ten minutes. It sings. It whistles. It whistles. It cackles. It shrieks, and then it goes bang! It has various accents, and it drops into the most unexpected dialects. But nobody appears to have any difficulty in understanding all it says.

Often it mispronounces some of the simpleg words. I have heard several times, I could at least take a chance upon occasion.

His cockney accent was amazingly thin. I had hoped for

"Now! tell you spient of it," he said. "Why, I have no stomach for high places either. That is why I did not help you in the row."

Then a way of little thundered by explosion in the twilight of wounded courage, and I decided that it took a braver kind of courage to decline the battlefire to climb the tree, this man having no desire to pretend that he would have taken to have accepted.

Briton Presses Germans.

The Hon. Aubrey Herbert, M. P. for South Somerset, a lieutenant in the British army and serving for several years in north France, says:

"I was shot and was knocked down by fierce attacks after about an hour and a half.

"I also allow wounded men and officers I was taken over to a village and there I was transported into a temporary hospital after skillfully. We remained there for the sounds the shells were making. At the moment I thought I was cutting notes a literary item, but upon close examination the results did not seem very brilliant. But they were the only results I had and as I hope some across the ocean to get them they make, from what I read the experiences of a good deal of time.

MAY SOON LIFT THE QUARANTINE

Eight Townships in Adams County Likely to be Freed from State Ban in Near Future. Clean-up Promises.

With no suspicious cases reported for herds considered on the nearly two weeks, indications are favorable for speedy modification and removal of the quarantine for the aphthous fever in the eight townships in Adams County still under restrictions. These townships are Berwick, Conewago, Hamiltonban, Mt. Pleasant, Oxford, Reading and Union.

The quarantine on the Webster Sunday farm, near East Berlin, was lifted Monday after an examination by Dr. C. B. Munger and Dr. W. E. Eckert who found the herd to be clean of the disease. Dr. Cringhill stated that the herd had not been condemned, as was previously reported, but was held under suspicion. The quarantine of that farm continues from the early days in the quarantine against York and Adams counties.

For the past month state and federal inspectors have been active in quarantining barns and other premises where cases, aphthe had been condemned. They are now busy in cleaning up this week, when the premises will unite in cleaning up the Bell farm near Biglerville. The inspectors will be engaged completing the work in the quarantined townships. The work of sending the reports to the separate department of agriculture by the necessary lumber and other materials can be furnished to make repairs to the barns, will be taken up during disinfecting.

The farm is the only premises still start in earnest by the middle of this week, when the combined state and federal forces will have a hand in the work. The work will start in the vicinity, where the disease first broke its worst.

That the modification of the quarantine several weeks ago was taken advantage of by the farmers, drovers and butchers was shown by the number of permits issued for the removal of stock.

The following modification of the quarantine was issued Friday: "Dr. J. Marshall, chief state veterinary: Permits may be issued for the removal of hay or straw from the premises disinfected premises: First—When the hay or straw is used exclusively for feeding or bedding horses or mules. Second—When the straw is used for feeding or bedding cloven hooded animals and a period of 30 days has elapsed from date of disinfection. Permits may be issued for the removal of hay or straw from premises cleaned and disinfected premises: First—When the corn has been husked from the wheat or other grain threshed prior to October 20, 1914. Second—When the corn has been husked and wheat or other grains has been threshed prior to October 20, 1914, and a period of 30 days has elapsed following the disinfection and cleaning of the premises.

RUM FOR INDIAN

Carlisle Bar Clerk Admits Rum Sale in $1,000 Bail.

A Wallington hotel bar clerk, named Carlisle, Harvey Smith, was held in $1,000 bail for selling liquor to an Indian who had come from Wilmington, Del.

The Indian, Louis Twin, had recently been transferred from the Carlisle Indian school to Wilmington, Del., where there is a lot of underground, and they had a big time together. Twin, it is said, had a set out silver and a few uses, and he had a good time for a few days, but when he overcast and went about the town in a helpless condition.

The statute regarding the offense of selling liquor to Indians is a heavy one. The clerk admitted the charge but said he thought the law applies to Indian reservations. The case is set for the February term of United States court at Scranton.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Elderly Man Badly Hurt in Fall Down Stairs.

Searching for a match with which to light the lamp on his bedroom, Jacob Ruth, a retired farmer living near Cumbo, Conewago, fell down the stairs and sustained a fracture of the right arm at the shoulder, and severe bruises over the body. He was found lying at the foot of the steps in an unconscious condition by members of the family of Calvin Deardorff, with whom he boards, and Dr. L. A. Miller, of East Berlin, was summoned to the Deardorff home and dressed Mr. Ruth's injuries. Mr. Stayer is a retired farmer and has resided with the Deardorff's for some time past.

SUGGEST GAME LAW CHANGES

Sportsmen of this and Other Counties Invited to Express their Views on Proposed Alterations in Game Laws.

Copies of "Game Law Suggestions" issued from the office of the board of game commissioners at Harrisburg are being sent to hunting organizations and game preserves throughout the state, the board having in last upon application to the game commissioners or through the members of the board.

With the pamphlet a personal letter is also sent, inviting "fair and full criticism on the proposed measures and additional suggestions or recommendations which have been addressed from time to time by the sportsmen of the several counties.

The propositions are sent out for the endorsement and careful consideration of the sportsmen of the state, in an effort to provide for the better protection and preservation of game, grouse and quail and some birds in the state of Pennsylvania, and prescribing penalties for violation of its provisions.

Among the many points taken up for the consideration of sportsmen for the grey, the black and the fox squirrel, wild turkey, ruffed grouse, Bobwhite quail, Virginia, ring-neck pheasants, Virginia partridges, Hungarian partridges, Chinese pheasants and woodcock; which, the book-let states, may be taken in the first day of November to the thirtieth day of the same month, both days inclusive. It is also proposed to open the season for gray rabbit and hare on the first day of November to the fifteenth day of December, and following, both days inclusive, of each year. The open season for deer shall be from December 1 to December 15, both days inclusive, for open season for bear, as proposed, will be from December 1 to December 15, both days inclusive, provided no other method except a gun within the bands of the state can be employed.

Provision is made, however, should the act be passed, that it shall be unlawful for any person to sell or have in possession for sale any deer, rabbit or hare or squirrel, killed in the state. In section 2 of the number of pheasants to be taken is fixed, the statement that it will be unlawful for any person to take more than two cocks in one day or more than five ruffed grouse, Bobwhite quail, Hungarian partridges or Virginia partridges. The protection of the act suggested, is paid to the ring-necked pheasant. The bill says the funds apart solely for the purpose of wild bird and game protection and the cost of publishing the game laws under the supervision of the board of game commissioners of this state.

FOR SUFFRAGE

Young People's Branch Held Debate at their Meeting.

The equal suffrage debate at the Young People's Branch meeting in the College Lutheran Church Sunday evening, proved to be an interesting one. After a spirited discussion by speakers from town and college the judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

A duet by Miss Dise and Miss Hinnes was enjoyed by all.

At the business meeting various reports were given and plans were made for effective work in the various departments.

VALUABLE GIFT FOR SEMINARY

Large Canvas of The Last Supper Presented to Local Institution, Will be Placed in Chapel. Work of Famous Artist.

The Gettysburg Theological Seminary has received a valuable painting as the gift of Prof. Jacob Tome, of Port Miller, of Philadelphia. It is a notable copy of the famous painting, "The Last Supper" by Leonardo da Vinci.

The original hangs in the refectory of the church, Santa Maria Della Grazie, Milan. It was finished in 1498 and is canvas 14 x 28 feet, the figures being more than life size. It was much impaired by neglect and by the violence of Napoleon's troops who nearly destroyed it in 1796.

The canvas which the Seminary has received is 6½ by 22 feet, the figures being life size. It is the work of Mr. James B. Sward, a noted portrait painter of Philadelphia who spent the better part of a year in painting it, using life models for the figures. The color scheme reproduces the original and is unusually rich.

Mr. Richard Sheaff, of Philadelphia, a son of the artist, was in Gettysburg over Sunday studying the placing of the windows in the chapel in connection with the Rosenberg Galleries.

It has been decided to place the painting in the channel of the Seminary Chapel which is now being prepared for the purpose. When in position on the walls it will be publicly unveiled, the date to be announced later.

LOST TO LEHIGH

Gettysburg Gives South Bethlehem School a Hard Fight.

In a game characterized by fast playing Gettysburg lost to Lehigh at South Bethlehem on Saturday 36 to 28. Schaeffer scored twelve of Gettysburg's points on foul goals. The game was closely contested, the boys from the college here who confidently expect to more than turn the tables over Lehigh plays a return game on February 6.

PAYS FOR CAKES TAKEN YEARS AGO

Five Cents Contributed to Conscience Fund. Mailed from Gettysburg to Former Manager of Altoman Hardware Company.

Eight years after that firm was succeeded by the Gettysburg Department Store, the E. L. Altoman Hardware Company has received a conscience fund of five cents. The letter, Mr. Altoman, now of Littlestown, last week was surprised to get the following:

Dear Sir—

Enclosed kindly find five cents in stamps, which I think I owe you for some cakes which I must have taken when you had the store here. My conscience began to prick me the other day when I was passing the Central Inn. Mr. Douglas plans to have a stone memorial erected before the building. American geographical society, which is now in charge of the preparatory to making another expedition into the interior.

Mr. Douglas and two companions set out from Khartoum in February, 1912 to make an exploration of the geographical and archaeological features of the South American polar country. The expedition was accompanied by a British naval officer, Lieutenant Pelham Aldrich, and Captain Ernest Shackleton, the famous Antarctic explorer.

Mr. Douglas was accompanied by one Indian,

MANAGER PLANK GETS INVITATION

Plans for Tri-City League, which Gettysburg May Join, Outlined to Local Manager in Letter from Association's President.

Manager Ira Plank, of the Gettysburg base ball team, on Friday received a letter from Harry Boehm, of Frederick, a formal invitation to situate the Gettysburg club in the proposed Tri-City League at Hagerstown early in February. Mr. Boehm's letter was in the form of a circulation and, in his letter to Mr. Plank, gives a large number of reasons why the proposed tri-city league which operated successfully last year, be again in effect.

"We worked strictly on 'live and let live' basis, each team trying to help the other to a successful season. We had a maximum salary list of $750 per month and adopted a rule which prevented one manager from trying to get a player who had already signed a contract with another manager. It can readily be seen what a great deal this was in keeping the different teams from bidding against each other.

"We had umpires who were empowered to impose fines and it is our purpose to have the same rule enforced in the case of Mike Rudolph, our first season umpire—about 1901 when the residence was remodeled. In 1911—the year we had Rudolph—I lost her home to that of Mrs. Eritzan—Miss Rudolph seemed to be like a child from two to three years of age.

In cross-examination Mr. Herod asked Mrs. Sneers, "You know Miss Annie was blind in one eye?" "No sir" was the reply.

Preston S. Tate, another neighbor, was the second witness for the defendant. He lived in a house belonging to Miss Rudolph and told that, in paying rent, he (Tate) considered himself at present so that there would be no danger of his paying rent twice. He also stated that he was a member of Gettysburg Lodge, No. 27, Knights of Malta, and that the annual dues of his lodge were paid by the Knights of Malta.

Mr. Tate told of fearing fire through Miss Rudolph's habit of carelessness in the matter of watching her at night through a window, saying that she would go with a lighted candle and getting food from a stove. According to the testimony Miss Rudolph would throw bits of food on the floor which rats would come and eat. The witness said on many times as many as five rats appearing at one time. The rodents apparently had no fear of Miss Rudolph but immediately scattered when the witness appeared in the room. He also said he to perform some service for her.

In 1909 Mr. Tate's son, John Thomas, went into the Rudolph house and claimed the residence in preparation for Memorial Day. Conditions were so offensive on the second story of the house that he was forced to sleep outside. Onions and potatoes were lying about the floor and had sprouted from inches.

Miss Rudolph had a pet cat, the witness, which was in the house for about a year without to his knowledge, ever gaining or losing. The cat finally died and was kept in the house a week or ten days before it was finally removed. Asked to interpolate, Mr. Tato testified, as she said she wanted to walk around the house, she was out of the ground so that she could give it a decent burial.

Her mental condition the witness said was like that of a child about three or four years of age.

MILITARY ACADEMY OF INDIAN SCHOOL

Latest Plan for Carlisle Institution would Take away All the Girls to Other Schools. Plan Academy Like West Point.

A bill proposing the reorganization of the Carlisle Indian School into the United States Indian Military Academy was introduced in the House of Representative Stephens, of Texas, chairman of the House committee on Indian Affairs.

The bill contemplates the introduction of a course of military instruction at the Carlisle school, similar to that of the United States Military Academy. An appropriation of $100,000 is provided for carrying out the reorganization, which is to take effect July 1.

The principal effect of the bill will be to abolish the co-educational and industrial and vocational features of the present school and to make it a military academy similar to the system of vision of a Board of Control composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior and an army officer to be appointed by the President. The present superintendent of the school, Hereafter, if the bill is passed, the Indian will be sent to other schools in different parts of the country.

The bill provides that all the buildings and property of the present Carlisle school shall be turned over to the proposed military academy, and the graduates of the academy will be available for service in the army, if needed, for a period of seven years following. Mr. Stephens, who is now in his three years course of study, to be completed after that now pursued at West Point.

STARTLING FACTS IN ALL HEARING OF INDIAN SCHOOL

Frequent Appearance of Rats in Rudolf Home Brought out in Testimony of One Witness. Did not Recognize Money.

Remarkable facts were brought out at the hearing of the Rudolf will case which was resumed before Register and Recorder Gardner on Thursday. The feeding of rodents in the house and other conditions were described by witnesses who produced testimony of a more unusual nature than that given at Tuesday's hearings.

Mrs. D. J. Swartz, who has resided for many years opposite the old Rudolf home, was the first witness to be called. She told of having been at the Rudolf house some time before her removal and of calling Miss Rudolf's attention to two or three piles of money several inches high lying on a shelf. "Why, is that money?" asked Miss Bunkel in surprise according to the testimony of the witness. Mrs. Swartz, said she was poorly covered with dust.

Mrs. Sneers said she had known Miss Rudolf for fifty years. The witness corroborated the foregoing testimony as to the time when carelessness in the care of Miss Rudolf was first became apparent—about 1901 when the residence was remodeled. In 1911—the year she was removed from her home to that of Mrs. Eritzan—Miss Rudolf seemed to be like a child from two to three years of age.

In cross-examination Mr. Herod asked Mrs. Sneers, "You know Miss Annie was blind in one eye?" "No sir" was the reply.

Preston S. Tate, another neighbor, was the second witness for the defendant. He lived in a house belonging to Miss Rudolf and told that, in paying rent, he (Tate) considered himself at present so that there would be no danger of his paying rent twice. He also stated that he was a member of Gettysburg Lodge, No. 27, Knights of Malta, and that the annual dues of his lodge were paid by the Knights of Malta.

Mr. Tate told of fearing fire through Miss Rudolf's habit of carelessness in the matter of watching her at night through a window, saying that she would go with a lighted candle and getting food from a stove. According to the testimony Miss Rudolf would throw bits of food on the floor which rats would come and eat. The witness said on many times as many as five rats appearing at one time. The rodents apparently had no fear of Miss Rudolf but immediately scattered when the witness appeared in the room. He also said he to perform some service for her.

In 1909 Mr. Tate's son, John Thomas, went into the Rudolf house and claimed the residence in preparation for Memorial Day. Conditions were so offensive on the second story of the house that he was forced to sleep outside. Onions and potatoes were lying about the floor and had sprouted from inches.

Her mental condition the witness said was like that of a child about three or four years of age.

MAKE INSPECTION OF THE CARRIERS

The semi-annual inspection of the city mail carriers by Postmaster Gettysburg post office is now on. The carriers are being accompanied on their rounds and data taken to be furnished to the department at Washington. Mr. Stonebraker is in charge of Assistant Postmaster Slaybaugh.

The number of pieces of which note is taken, as the carrier covers his route, is considered a factor in it is possible for him to make, if every place on the route were to receive mail at one time, and the number of actual stops are also counted together with the number of pieces of mail. The pieces of the collection of mail, parcels, papers, and letters are all counted and the time it takes to make the journey the route is noted.

In addition, count is kept of the number of residences, apartment houses, and business places on the route, together with other data. All four carriers will have one test made and Mr. Stonebraker will then compile the figures which he notes, while making the rounds. The summaries will be filed and sent on to the proper authorities at Washington where they will be compared with the government standards for that branch of the postal service.

The inspection is made semi-annually, and in the past the Gettysburg carriers have always put up a showing that was much to their credit.

COUNTY FRUIT SWEEPS SHOW

Forty Prizes Won by Adams County Fruit in Big State Exhibit at Wilkes Barre. Twenty Four First and Fifteen Seconds.

Adams County's fruit swept the big State show now on at Wilkes-Barre, a dispatch from there to The News on Thursday telling that the exhibit of the Fruit Growers' Association of Adams county was the county exhibit prize and that twenty four first and fifteen second prize ribbons had been captured by exhibitors from this county.

The dispatch exceptionally flowing Adams County exhibitors itself pre-eminent in fruit growing in Pennsylvania and adds another to its long list of victories at similar events. The county exhibit was made up largely of the same fruit shown at the recent annual convention at Bonneville and was composed of the many varieties grown in the orchards of the local fruit belt. It was in charge of some of the best known growers of the county who had it attractively arranged and the exhibit from Adams was the great feature of the show.

In addition to the distinction this county gains by these awards, prominence comes here in the re-election of an Adams County man as president of the State Fruit Growers' Association. C. J. Tyson, of Flora Dale, was re-elected to the office at the election held on Wednesday afternoon at Wilkes-Barre.

Vice presidents, Dr. I. H. Mayer, Willow Street; William J. Kuhn, Fishtown; F. H. Fleming, Harrisburg, secretary, J. A. Rusk, Huntingdon; treasurer Oliver W. Thomas, King of Prussia.

An invitation to the next year in Reading was referred to the Executive Committee.

At the second day's proceedings Wednesday morning, Dr. J. P. Stewart, pomologist of the Pennsylvania State College, gave a talk on "Some Observations of the Past Seven Years." He discussed the effects of fertilizers on the different kinds of orchard crops. How apple trees should be pruned was given by Professor Mitchell Paddock, of the Ohio University.

S. H. Fulton, of West Virginia, made the interesting address on "Boys in the Young Apple Orchard."

The afternoon session's talk was given by Professor M. G. Kains, of Cornell, on "Spraying Fruit Trees." Professor Paddock, R. H. Bell, of Williamsport, the Lycoming County Fruit Grower, made an earnest plea in behalf of the work of farm bureau.

Professor Stewart presented his subject of pruning trees by giving lantern-slide illustrations.

The regular business of the association were addressed by specialists from outside of the State. Among the speakers were Professor C. E. Myers, of Ohio College, spoke on "Principles of Plant Breeding," and Daniel Dean, of Nichols, N. Y., on "Potato Culture." In the afternoon other speakers were: Professor E. L. Worthen, of Cornell College, Ithaca, New York, New Jersey, and Professor Paul Stevens, of Rutgers College.

On Tuesday the first session was opened by Chester J. Tyson, president, who delivered the annual address and address of welcome and extended to the visitors the privilege of the floor.

The first lecture on the culture of fruit was by D. L. Bard, of Hershey Creek, Pa., who spoke on the "Essentials in Planting and Care of the Young Orchard." Bard is a practical grower of grapes in Erie County, Pa., and is known as a practical cultural college, and in his address he gave the results of his experiments along theoretical and practical lines.

E. Mason, of State College, gave a demonstration of box packing at the afternoon session. Professor Stewart was asked questions by the delegates. Professor Stewart was followed by Professor F. N. Fagan, of State College, on "Methods of Different Growers," from which the session adjourned.

At Tuesday evening's business session Cyrus L. Fox, of the State Department of Agriculture, brought before the delegates the matter of a State appropriation. Until recently the State allowed the association $1500 annually, but this appropriation was cut out by the legislature at Governor Tener.

The fruit show in connection with the convention is one of the largest ever held in this part of Pennsylvania, and includes a fine exhibit from Adams County.

PRINCIPALS IN ANNUAL SESSION

Heads of High and Grammar Schools of Adams County Gather in Gettysburg and Discuss Various Topics of Importance.

The principals and teachers from the high and grammar schools of Adams County gathered Saturday for their annual bi-monthly meeting and discussion of topics pertaining to the betterment of conditions in their various schools. The sessions were held in the auditorium of the High School building and were well attended. Discussions along various lines of work were led by different teachers and others participated in the conferences which followed.

A feature of the morning session was the talk on "Writing" given by Miss Mary Benner, of the Gettysburg schools. Miss Benner had a class of pupils present and illustrated her talk by giving a lesson in that branch. The plan was an unusual one and followed with interest by all the teachers present.

E. Cecil Stover also told of his method in teaching Writing and C. Ulysses Myers gave a talk on the proper method of teaching Spelling. In the afternoon the principal topic of discussion was that of the awarding of prizes in the high schools, various opinions being held on the advisability of the plan. D. W. Lehman and Roy D. Keener led the conferences.

Adjournment was taken in time to allow all the teachers to get the afternoon trains for their homes. Before parting each of them inspected the equipment of the various departments of the Gettysburg High School.

STRAW RIDE

High School Sophomores Entertained at Weaver Home.

The Sophomore Class of Gettysburg High School went on a straw ride Friday evening to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. FOR NEW TROLLEY

New Trolley Line Pays Borough $25 Annually for Ten Years.

The borough council of McConnellsburg has granted a fifty years franchise to the McConnellsburg & Fort Loudon railway company, with the restriction that the line shall be constructed and operated in the borough within three years next following the acceptance of the ordinance by the trolley company.

The company is to pay the borough $25 annually for a period of ten years, and thereafter such sums as may be mutually agreed upon.

All this week a force of engineers has engaged in the measuring survey. A number of responsible contractors have expressed desire to take bonds in pay for work done.

COAL FOR POOR

According to the will of Jesse M. Weyer, of York, the income of $10,000 is to be used for the purchase of coal for the worthy poor of that city. This money is placed in the hands of Ray F. Sherwood in trust. Not more than two tons of coal shall be distributed to any one family in any one year.

WILL NOT HELP LOCAL RAILROAD

Little Benefit to Western Maryland through Rate Increase, because it Does not Affect Coal. Improvements Delayed.

While the advance in freight rates, recently allowed by the interstate commerce commission, will greatly increase the revenue of the railroad lines, the Western Maryland railway will not benefit to the extent that most of the others will for the reason that the increase is not granted railroads for carrying coal. This will prevent the Western Maryland from getting its finances into the shape it had planned, as the road is a coal road and carries hopping the very richest coal fields in the Allegheny mountains.

President Carl R. Gray, of the Western Maryland, is expected to make rate decisions, stated that inasmuch as the Western Maryland took no great interest in the Ohio rate case, the decision of this time. Nevertheless, it is known that the exclusion of coal from participation in the increase is a great disappointment to the Western Maryland officials. The last report of the company showed that, if the increase had been granted, it would have added the additional revenue to the Western Maryland's income in the neighborhood of $35,000. With coal cut out, however, this expected increase will probably be cut in half.

The decision awards the carriers an increase on practically everything but coal and iron ore and is expected to yield nearly $50,000,000 a year to revenues of the lines east of the Mississippi and north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers.

$75,000 BLAZE

Department Store Fire In Hanover Early this Morning.

Kauffman's department store, in Market Square, the heart of Hanover, was discovered at the store of S. H. Penncy and Son, of Gettysburg, was found to be on fire which broke out shortly after 11 o'clock last night and burned until an early hour on Tuesday. The loss will run between $75,000 and $100,000, partly covered by insurance. The fire started in the basement and in a short time the building was ablaze from the inflammable glass which attracted thousands of Hanover sightseers and residents. The store is closed on Tuesday and members of marching clubs who were in Hanover turned in to help the firemen.

At 1:15 a. m. the fire was brought under control. Smoke and water damage to a dozen stores and offices in addition to the Kauffman and Penncy establishments.

COULD MAKE UP WORK

Suggests System to Keep School Pupils from Falling behind.

At the monthly meeting of the Parent Teachers Association, Mrs. L. B. Supervising Principal Burgoon pointed out a system in vogue in which the town schools could be improved, and included as one of his suggestions an arrangement by which pupils who fall behind in their work during the school term could make up the work during the summer months under competent teachers.

He also said another teacher was needed in the grammar grades on account of increased enrollment, and suggested one or more male teachers in the grades. Women now have charge of all the schools except the High School, and he thought it would be more attention to music in the schools, a gymnasium and a graded system in paying salaries were other things needed, he said.

Mrs. Kauffman reported on the purchase of a stereopticon machine for use in schools and presented the society to buy one at an expense of $60.

Prof. Roth, Mrs. Frank D. Blocher and Miss Rummel were named as the program committee, and Mrs. T. J. Winebrenner, Mrs. Foth, Mrs. T. E. Biehl, Mrs. Frank Hankey and Mrs. John Warner as the visiting committee for the month.

Miss McGrew's room and the Eighth Grade were awarded for the banner which will hold for one month.

PRESENTED $25

At a meeting of the county and district officers of the Adams County Sabbath School Association at the Pitzer House Friday evening Miss Lily Daugherty, the secretary, was given a purse of $25 made up by the other members of the official board in appreciation of her work. The gift was a surprise and greatly appreciated.

RAISING BULBS INDOORS.

Should Become Thoroughly Rooted Before Being Transferred to Grass.

Not only are bulbs and other bulbs from outdoors otherwise around at this in early spring, but they are also most satisfactory for indoor culture during the winter. They should be used in separate pots rather than in window boxes. Indeed, bulbs, once in the shows, tulip and hyacinth, are practically the only plant that will do satisfactorily in the house with ordinary care. Just the same they do quite a similar satisfaction in the house.

Bulbs should be planted in the indoors are that they shall become thoroughly rooted before the tops are properly made grown. This is done by setting the bulbs in soil either in pots or in shallow boxes. Pots are the most convenient for the purpose. They should be set close in the dark for a period of 6 or 8 weeks, depending on the number of the stalks. They should be kept dry there until the roots are well grown. The bulbs should then be brought into a cool, moist, vacant room, and some light, for three or four days, and then placed in a room where it is warmer and full light. During all the growth of growth the soil should be kept moist without being water logged.

Occasionally the roots should be examined to see whether or not the plant requires watering. This is done by pushing the hands over the top of the pot, inverting plant and soil, jugging the rim of the pot on to a table, and then lifting the pot off. This cannot be done if the roots are not properly made. If the ball of earth is compact and matted with roots the plant should be put in a slightly larger pot and have more fresh soil added to the old ball of earth by floating with the finger and the handle of a teaspoon. Tulips require special care and attention. It is best to plant them in a pot in a box and cover the whole pot with ashes, or better, bury them in sand or other and leave them there for a time and has pushed clear above the pot surface. Then they are ready for transfer to a receptacle to get out of the bulbs.

The best time for the transfer and and especially the Chinese cured lily of the valley, vivacity, and the tulip and glaxes for those bulbs may be obtained from the dealers. They are generally grown or they may be placed in the next year's bulbs and specially by pebbles. The water should be kept so that it touches the bottom of the bulb.

BRUMBAUGH TAKES OFFICE

HARRISBURG WAS CROWDED

New Governor Reviews Parade of Militia and Inaugural Ball. Claim Inaugural Lieutenant Governor.

Harrisburg, Pa., Jan. 19.—Martin G. Brumbaugh was inaugurated governor of Pennsylvania this afternoon and reviewed the parade, surrounded by his family and many invited guests.

Frank R. McNulty, of Lancaster, was inaugurated as lieutenant governor in the senate chamber shortly after noon. Both branches of the legislature were adjourned to allow the ceremonies attending the inauguration of the new officers.

Rev. W. J. Swalmint, of Huntingdon, offered the invocation. Rev. Brumbaugh, invested the blessing, and Chief Justice Fox administered the oath of office.

The new governor then delivered his inaugural address. In strong language he advocated the plan of the legislature the enactment into law of all the policies he has advocated for his platform, including local option, workmen's compensation act, etc.

Governor Brumbaugh, in his address, a nation was fired at the ceremonies and the greatest crowd was driven over the line of parade, escorted by the Governor's Troop of Harrisburg. They then took their places on the stand and witnessed the parade.

The governor's party consisted of state officials, Judges and Mayor John H. Royal, of Harrisburg, who occupied about thirty automobiles.

General D. Ed. Ross, chief of Philadelphia, was grand marshal, with Colonel J. B. Hutchinson, of Harrisburg, Harrisburg, in command of the military. Other commanders were appointed from the Fourth and Ninth Pennsylvania Regiments, Major Ed. Peter M. Bremer, Guy Barner, William Bowling, James E. Bowling, Harry Kuhn, G. Buecher, Dr. E. D. PITHY ADDRESS OF NEW GOVERNOR

Brumbaugh Takes Direct Stand For His Platform Reforms.

Urges Much Attention to State Highways, Education, Labor, Farm and Industrial Problems. New Law Wave Too Many Laws—Asks Legislature to Pass a Workmen's Compensation Act.

Harrisburg, Jan. 19.—As soon as Governor Brumbaugh took the oath of office today he delivered the following inaugural address:

"Fellow citizens of Pennsylvania:

"In assuming the duties of the office to which you have elected me, I am humbled and stunned by the greatness of the responsibility and the abiding conviction that I can do only my very when who, and all by the Divine. In his name and on behalf of your state I take hold of endeavor. Fortunate, indeed, are we that our commonwealth is enjoying today the blessings of peace and the benefits of a great war which provided it would be wise to admit of no entanglements of alliance or of road problem. We must have now a new spirit of patriotic devotion, a new acceptance and permit of a continuous comprehension of the commonwealth. The people need, and must have, a clearer understanding of civilizes.

"The state should find revenues adequate to the construction of a few great highways, connecting the greater centers of population. These roads should be laid out and prepared under the care of capable engineers, and should be made ready to keep their duty in good repair. It is time that the commonwealth be made and unsuperviced, allow it to determine the proper expenditure of the needs amendment to the end that it may be in a position to do for the people a road and is willing to provide the money to build it, and speedy relief they merit and deserve.

"We also need standard roads, which are open to all and which on the county unit plan. The county unit plan would provide for the district sub-division its quota of road and would provide for the state a system of roads, which would be the equivalent to a sidlance compared to the state. The state would be made ready to keep the roads in good condition. Such a system would be a great benefit to the state, and would be a great benefit to the state, and would be a great benefit to the state, and

FELL OVER DEAD CHOPPING WOOD

Peter Kieter, Well Known Farmer of Below York Springs, Found Dead in Wood Tract. Had been Seen a Short Time before.

Lying face downward, with his axe gripped in his left hand and his head shoved over a log, Peter Kieter, a retired farmer, living below York Springs, was found dead shortly before 6 o'clock Thursday evening, in the woods of William Spahr. Death came from heart trouble.

Mr. Kieter, who was about sixty-five years old, was a retired farmer and, more for something to do than anything else worked for Mr. Spahr, and Thursday was engaged in cutting wood. Mr. Spahr had worked with Mr. Kieter until 4 o'clock, at which time he went to the house, first, however, telling Mr. Kieter to come to the house about 5:30 o'clock for supper. That was the last that Mr. Kieter was seen alive.

At supper time Mr. and Mrs. Spahr waited fully fifteen minutes and when Mr. Kieter did not appear, Mr. Spahr and his son, Otto, walked to the woods. There, lying in the narrow path, not fifteen feet from where he had been working, Mr. Kieter was found. The body was not yet cold. Doctor Cashman, of York Springs, was summoned and pronounced death due to heart trouble, probably induced by the unusual exertion.

Mr. Kieter is survived by the widow and two daughters, Mrs. John Myers, and Esther, at home.

He also leaves several brothers and sisters.

MAJOR GOLDSBOROUGH

Major E. Y. Goldsborough, first cousin of the late Dr. C. E. Goldsborough, of Hunterstown, a well-known member of the Frederick bar and a Union veteran of the Civil War, died at his home in that city Tuesday afternoon, after a lingering illness. Besides his widow he leaves one son, E. Dalton Goldsborough.

Major Goldsborough was a native of Frederick, being born December 11, 1839. He was admitted to the bar in 1861. During the Civil War he served as lieutenant in the Eighth Regiment, Maryland Volunteer Infantry. In the Battle of the Monocacy he was on the staff of General Tyler, from whom he received the rank of major.

He had served as a state's attorney, United States marshal and referee in bankruptcy. He was quite active in G. A. R. circles and assisted with the organization of the Maryland branch. He was at one time a member of the board of directors of the Maryland House of Correction.

MRS. H. JEROME WALTER

Mrs. H. Jerome Walker died suddenly Sunday evening at the home of her son, Harry Walter, near Sugartown, aged 85 years, 8 months and 17 days. She had been ill for only about a quarter of an hour, though about a month ago she had been taken suddenly sick in Gettysburg in much the same way.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Meals, deceased, and was born near Benders Church. For many years the family lived in Gettysburg and during her early life she married Mr. Jerome Walter who was engaged in sash making in Gettysburg for a long time. He died about ten years ago and four years later she went to the residence of her son who conducts a store at Sugartown.

She leaves four children, Mrs. Israel S. Stonesifer and William Walter, of Gettysburg; Mrs. Charles Eckenrode, York; Harvey Walter, Sugartown.

Funeral Wednesday morning, meeting at the house. Services and interment at Gettysburg.

WILLIAM TRIMMER

William Trimmer was found dead in bed at the home of his daughter in York Saturday morning. He was born in this county and formerly resided in Hamilton township. He leaves three children.

The funeral was held on Tuesday.

MRS. EZRA HOUSER

Mrs. Ezra Houser was found dead in bed at her home in Irishtown about five o'clock Wednesday morning by her husband. She had called Mr. Houser during the night and asked for water which he gave her. She was then sitting up in bed to get relief from a form of heart trouble to which she was subject and she was in this same position when he discovered her in the morning.

Mrs. Houser was a daughter of the late Jacob Frost, of near Irishtown, and was 34 years old. She leaves her husband and four young children at home. She also leaves two sisters and two brothers, Mrs. Charles Bringman of Mount Rock; Mrs. Carl, and Joseph Frost, of near Hanover; and William Frost.

Funeral at Conewago Chapel Saturday morning at nine o'clock. Interment in the Chapel cemetery.

HARRY JUSKOVITZ

Harry Juskovitz, generally known about town as a junk dealer, died about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning at his home on Railroad street from tuberculosis.

He had been a resident of Gettysburg for about three years, having come here from Philadelphia. He leaves his wife and three children.

MRS. CHARLES BESSER

Mrs. Charles Besser, of Mt. Holly Springs, died Sunday morning at one o'clock, aged 83 years, 9 months and 3 days. She leaves her husband and several nephews and nieces.

Mrs. Besser was a member of the Lutheran church of Mt. Holly Springs.

Funeral services were held at her home this morning and the body was taken for interment to Maytown, Lancaster County, her former home.

FRANKLIN LEESE

Funeral services for Franklin and Mrs. Charles L. N. Leese, residing on Table R. R. Gap Road, in West Manchester township, York County, died Saturday evening, at 7 o'clock from a complication of diseases, aged 48 years.

The funeral was held this morning with services at the home, Rev. Dr. F. S. Lindaman, of Littlestown, officiating. Interment in Christ Church cemetery.

MRS. MAY W. SCHAFFER

Mrs. May Werts Schaffer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Werts, died of the effects of pneumonia at her home in Gettysburg, on Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock. Funeral Tuesday morning, Mrs. Schaffer was a frequent visitor to Gettysburg and has many friends here.

JESSE T. CASHMAN

Jesse T. Cashman died at the home of Frank Sadler, near Cashtown, on Wednesday evening at 11:20, aged 75 years, 5 months and 10 days. Death was caused by a complication of diseases.

Mr. Cashman was, for a number of years, engaged in farming, at one time having had extensive farming and supplying other farms during his life.

He leaves one sister, Mrs. Caroline Breaden, of Baltimore; and two brothers, Harry Cashman, of Harrisburg; and Jacob Cashman, of Adams County.

Funeral Saturday morning meeting at the house at 10:30. Services and burial at Hampton, Rev. Charles Baker officiating.

MISS RUNKEL WAS LOCKED IN ROOM

That for frequent intervals of several days, and on a time, during a period of eight days, Miss Gertrude Runkel was locked in a room at the home of her Mrs. Richard Besser on Middle street, that she rapped on the door frequently asking to be let out and that Mrs. Etter often said she was "crazy as a bed bug", was the testimony of John Bellmyer, of Hanover, at the inquest on hearing of the now famous suit.

Mr. McDonnell did some paper hanging at the Besser home in February 1913. Miss Runkel was there when he was at work he said that, with the large bedroom door closed, Mrs. Etter was with Miss Runkel, the latter was always locked in her room. Witness said he could hear Miss Runkel plead to be let out. Mrs. Etter often said she was "crazy as a bed bug", was the testimony of John Bellmyer, of Hanover, at the afternoon hearing of the now famous suit.

Mr. McDonnell did some paper hanging at the Besser home in February 1913. Miss Runkel was there when he was at work he said that, with the large bedroom door closed, Mrs. Etter was with Miss Runkel, the latter was always locked in her room. Witness said he could hear Miss Runkel plead to be let out. Mrs. Etter said, according to Mr. McDonnell's testimony, was because she was afraid Miss Runkel might fall down the stairs if no one was about to care for her.

During the time he was employed at the home, Mr. McDonnell was called to see Miss Runkel, Mr. McDonnell said, and Mrs. Etter remarked to him that she was "sweet as pie" after Miss Annie's money and would do anything to have her. She was "Mrs. Etter; if they got it." The witness said that Miss Runkel was kindly cared for by Mrs. Etter and that the latter deserved substantial compensation for her work.

A number of witnesses were called during the afternoon. Beulah Spangler told of burying numerous cats and a dog for Miss Runkel. She asked him to get permission to bury the dog in the family lot in Evergreen Cemetery but was refused. All the pets in question were placed in specially made boxes and buried in the garden. Rev. F. E. Taylor told of having conducted a song service at the Etter home with a company of other persons, for Miss Runkel. "Her pleasure was that of a child", said the minister.

George Slonaker told of Miss Runkel feeding cats from a plate and of his having helped to carry out two wagon loads of accumulated material at the time of the fire in the Runkel kitchen some years ago. Luther McDonnell in part corroborated his father's testimony.

Norman Swartz told of taking orders for paper hanging from Mrs. Etter since memorable. He also spoke of being called to the home of the deceased to recognize him at times was also related. D. J. Swartz said he also witnesses did, that she was childish during the latter part of her residence on Baltimore street. Mr. F. Turner said he thought Miss Runkel's mental condition was referable to "a physical appearance. John Thorn, Mrs. P. S. Tate and Mrs. George Culliton were also witnesses, testifying to the same matters indicating an impaired mental condition.

The hearing was continued to February 4.

ROUMANIAN ARMY REGARDED AS ONE OF BEST

Until Recently Was Looked Upon as Silent Ally of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

THERE are harvesting indications of the every participation of Roumania in the European war, the intuition into play number party to the combination against the Teutonic Powers, engineered by Great Britain, France and Italy.

Pro-Ententes expressed the allies in the earlier stages of the war in the ambitious, unobjective, and not only or necessitive of war beyond those to indicate for their own boundaries and. These aforesaid aims have been ever moved. It is seen, and the contrary, Roumania has blocked full Roumanian ambitions. Its been reserving with the return in that country of the requisite supplies for the equipment and provisioning of the 500,000 men which she is able to put into the field. It is said that arrangements have been completed also for the financing of these operations.

Wonderful Force.

The Roumanian army is a wonderful force and would be a great help to the allies should it be brought to their aid. When King Charles went to Roumania in 1881 he found an army consisting of one levies. It was not professional, and it was equipped with such medieval weapons as pikes. Charles had been trained under Prussian tutelage and had seen what strong use of a army, the Prussian army, in a war, the Prussian army, had contributed himself to the Roumanian chief of staff, and he proceeded to the reorganization of the army according to his own notions.

He obtained from his generals, the Prussian, "Moltkeiz" measures of the "Kriegsspiel" and "Kriegsspiel" and "Kriegsspiel." Here was an organized militia of 20,000 men. This was the nucleus of the army of Roumania. It was a very good one, and it was the nucleus of the army of Roumania. It was a very good one, and it was the nucleus of the army of Roumania. It was a very good one, and it

WOULD SUSPEND CHEATING BOYS

College Faculty Announces Drastic Punishment for Those who are Dishonest in Examinations, Warning just before Mid-Years.

Right on the eve of the mid-year examinations in Gettysburg College the students were confronted Friday morning with the somewhat more or less startling announcement which appeared on the bulletin board signed by C. E. Patterson, secretary of the faculty:

"Any and all cases of students who, in written tests, or examinations, are guilty of willful cheating or the making use of other helps than those permitted by the instructor shall be reported by the instructor to the faculty.

"Punishment of such offenders shall be not less than suspension for half a school year, but may, in flagrant cases, involve the refusal of a degree."

Consternation appeared on the faces of not a few college boys when they read the decree for F. So have an admitted fact at the school that dishonesty in examinations was not an uncommon practice, and so less punishment than suspension for an entire semester may be doubled in case of detection, and that refusal to graduate may be the penalty is assured. Students who read the bulletin read the notice twice before they finally resolved the puzzle cartoon taken.

It is believed that preparations for the coming tests will now go on in more earnest than they had yet. Only those who judge themselves the most guilty, perhaps, will be "ride through" their coming examinations.

$75,000 TO FIGHT CATTLE DISEASE

Fourteen Herds were Destroyed in Adams County. Inspectors now Paying Farmers for Damage to Property. Average is $150.

During the epidemic of aphthous fever among the cattle in the York and Adams district, the cost to the state and federal governments will be about $75,000, according to figures of the appropriations compiled at the headquarters of the inspectors. Since the beginning of the epidemic of the hoof and mouth disease last October, 38 herds were condemned and put to death in this district. In round numbers the head of cattle killed will be 2,000. Local inspectors condemned 53 herds for a total of 1,695 heads. Of this number 940 were cattle, 693 hogs, 62 sheep and one goat.

The York county district was the heaviest losers, 38 herds being condemned and killed, while in Adams county there were 14 herds. The appraisement of the stock condemned and killed by local veterinarians amounts to $60,580.52. These figures do not include the cost of the disinfecting or replacing the lumber on quarantined premises, which costs on an average $150 to each farm. The Strickler herd of 209 cattle, and the Miller, Ferrence, Deckman and a fifth herd in the vicinity of Dillsburg, condemned by inspectors out of the Lancaster headquarters, are not included in the above figures.

With the appraisements of the latter five herds added to the figures furnished by local inspectors, the loss in the York and Adams county district will be more than $75,000. Dr. G. M. Gwyhill and Dr. F. W. Ainsworth, are now engaged compiling a statement of the total cost of the plague in the York-Adams county districts. The two inspectors have been canvassing among the farmers the past few days adjusting the losses sustained to property by the disinfecting. The state and federal departments will bear the appraised value as well as the cost of the condemned cattle. When a farm is visited Commissioner Stambaugh makes an estimate as to the cost of restoring the stable to the condition it was in prior to the disinfecting. His appraisement is accepted by the inspectors. The farmer is then allowed the amount to make the repairs, if he so desires. If he does not accept the amount the work will be done by a contractor employed by the departments. With the exception of two, all the farmers of quarantined places have accepted the appraised value of the repairs to be made.

Government authorities feel that the foot-and-mouth disease which broke out in various parts of the United States and made its appearance in Adams county in November, is now well in hand, and that there is little danger that there will be fresh or outbreaks in this county. However, the quarantine which was placed on this county and modified at different times has not been entirely removed, restrictions still being enforced in eight of the townships.

Many persons have changed their opinions in regard to the precautions taken by the Government in stamping out the foot-and-mouth disease. They believe now that unless such drastic steps had been taken to eradicate the epidemic it would have spread to a serious proportions in this county, causing great losses to the farmers and putting business houses in danger of contracting the disease.

Reports from Europe state that the foot-and-mouth disease has broken out in many countries. It goes without saying that there will be great difficulty to check the spread of the disease in those countries which are so much occupied with other pressing matters. According to Government reports the losses from this cattle disease in Europe have been enormous in the past. The United States has been very fortunate in escaping the extensive ravages of the disease, but this is largely due to efforts of the Government in taking the situation in hand as soon as any cases appear.

LOSES SUIT IN COURT AT CANTON

Joseph H. Colliflower Asks Five Thousand Dollars for Stock Purchased and Five Thousand Damages. Awarded Neither.

Joseph H. Colliflower, for a number of years proprietor of the store on Baltimore street, now owned by the Adams County Hardware Company, last week lost a suit in court at Canton, Ohio, for $5000 which he invested in a Canton store, and for $5000 damages. S. D. Bushman and C. Wm. Trassell, of Gettysburg, and S. B. Gossinger, of Doylesville, were subpoenaed as witnesses in the case but were not called.

In December 1912 Mr. Colliflower disposed of his business here to the Adams County Hardware Company store. He went to Canton to become general manager of the hardware department of the Kline, Heffleman and Company general store, a large establishment which handles practically everything usually found in a department store, with the exception of dry goods. Mr. Colliflower purchased $5000 of preferred stock in the concern.

It was brought out in the trial last week that the company represented to him that they had paid 90 per cent in dividends for five years then last but, when asked whether this was out of the earnings, stated that they would not say that. The company claimed that things were misrepresented to him and that he was drawn along with the firm so that he severed connections in about six months after he took charge of the hardware department.

He had brought suit for the $5000 which he invested in the stock—also for $5000 damages. The Court ruled that he did not have a valid claim for damages and that the only matter on which the case could be tried was on the basis of fraud.

The jury was sent out and the Court announced that the prosecution had not established this fraud, whereupon the Court wrote a verdict for the defendant, the matter being virtually taken from the jurors' hands. It is said that the jury was largely in favor of Mr. Colliflower. He retains his stock which, it is said, pays seven per cent.

The testimony of the local witnesses was not admitted as they were not concerned in the fraud question on which the case hinged.

Mr. Colliflower now has a large hardware store of his own in Canton and is said to be doing a profitable business.

CHORAL SOCIETY

Music Loving People of Town Have Great Treat.

The Gettysburg Choral Society is a comparatively new institution in the community. Not one town of this size is a hundred possesses such an organization with the single leadership, both vocal and instrumental, of Prof. Stone.

The members are being led into singing by fields and pastures new by way of surprise. They are singing "The Bridal Chorus" from Mr. F. T. Wood's "Bridal Rose," "Bedouin Love," "The Miller's Wooing"; and "Be Not Afraid", from Mendelssohn's Elijah. They are about to take up for advance work, Pierne's "Serenade". Merely singing gives one a new sense of power, putting human beings in danger of contracting the disease.

Reports from Europe state that the foot-and-mouth disease has broken out in many countries. It goes without saying that there will be great difficulty to check the spread of the disease in those countries which are so much occupied with other pressing matters. GRANT LICENSE AT LINCOLN WAY

John Walter and Bar Clerk Must Leave Hotel, According to Conditions under which New Proprietor Takes Charge.

Kenderton S. Lynch, of Philadelphia, was granted license at the Lincoln Way Hotel on Saturday upon certain conditions.

McClean and McClean, representing the remonstrants who appeared at Judge court several weeks ago, stated that they had learned from Director of Public Safety Porter, of Philadelphia, that there was nothing in Mr. Lynch's record in that city which would argue against his being granted a license here. The attorneys said that they would not contest the granting of a license to him at the Lincoln Way Hotel provided John F. Walter, the present proprietor, and Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix, the former a bartender at the hotel, would all leave the place immediately.

The license transfer from Mr. Walter to Mr. Lynch, granted a few days ago, will be granted this week on these conditions. This license was issued to Mr. Lynch after a petition was imposed that application for license should be for hotel purposes from April 1, 1915 to April 1, 1916 instead of for the full year.

Other business transacted at Court Saturday included the appointment of Harry Clay Collifower as trustee, trust of a fund left Esther Gray Bigler, daughter of S. Gray Bigham, of Biglerville.

All of the accounts advertised were confirmed without exceptions and both of which were continued: the account of Mrs. Lyman H. Gill, Gilliland administrator of the estate of John H. Gilliland, late of Straban township and the first and final account of Emma J. Rower, administratrix of the estate of Samuel Rower, late man, late of East Berlin. Exceptions were filed in the latter case.

CHINESE YOUTH CRAZED BY FEAR

Young Son of Hop Lee Threatened with Horrible Death by Black Hand Gang Placed in Jail until he Recovers his Senses.

Threatened by a band of New York Chinese high-binders So Ho Jan Hen, alias Lee Yee Jung, aged 17, was in a raving all kinds of trouble for the past year or more on account of efforts of United States immigration authorities who want to secure his deportation to his native land. He became temporarily deranged and is in a state of mind that he does not know he can do himself an harm. As soon as he is convinced that his life is not in danger the young oriental will be recovered.

It seems that a band of Chinese in New York found out some weeks ago of young Jan Hen's difficulties about the immigration matter and took the opportunity to blackmail him. They accordingly wrote him on the telephone and made threats which they said they would carry out unless he would pay them $900. Jan Hen did not have the money or he would have paid it, he said, but he told the gangsters that he would give them $10 a month. When the first few payments arrived and he did not send the money he was again called.

He was told that unless he sent the money on agent of the New York Chinese Tong he would be put in a big bend and "chop him into a thousand pieces". The youngster believed the threats literally and worried about it day and night. His father, Hop Lee, also fell into the trap and sent money in the mars way unknopy hours at the Tuesday shop on Carlisle street. Friends could not convince the boy that he had nothing to fear and he finally became so violent in his distresses that it was thought best to place him in Sheriff Thompson's care until he could be convinced that there was no danger.

Even at the jail he fears his enemies and told the Sheriff that he knew the New York Chinese would pay him—the Sheriff—$500 to let them get him. Jan Hen feared his meals were poisoned and would not eat for several days. When he did break his fast, he ate all the food he could get his hands on.

Hop Lee has the sympathy of his many Gettysburg friends in his new trouble and a number of people are lending their aid in convincing young Jan Hen that they need have no fear over the oriental black-a-dicer.

FAMILY FLEES AS HOME BURNS

Gold Fish Valued at a Thousand Dollars Burns in Fire at Mount Holly Springs. Barn Fire at Cashtown. One at Thurmont.

Fire on Friday completely destroyed the dwelling house of W. S. Russell, now occupied by Richard Rickard, at Works near Mount Holly Springs. The fire was caused by a defective flue and the flames spread so rapidly that little of the contents of the home could be saved.

Mr. Russell and his son, Richard, were in Harrisburg at the time the fire and quickly ran down stairs. They tried to save some of the furniture and in doing so Mr. Russell inhaled flames.

Young Russell had some dynamite stored in a closet in his room, but he was unable to get to it and when the dynamite was left in the house an explosion followed, which helped to fetch the already doomed building. The explosion of the dynamite roused the employes of the works who lived nearby and hastened to the scene, but not could do very little to rubbise the flames.

Near the dwelling house Russell maintained a large enclosed aquarium filled with fancy gold fish, and this was completely wrecked by the heat. A grand piano was among the furniture burned. The loss was about $7,000.

One of the fish in the aquarium was valued by Mr. Russell at $1,000.

Mr. Russell was away from home on a visit and the father and son were alone in the house. Mr. Russell is now at the Holly inn under the care of a physician.

Fire Near Thurmont.

Fire destroyed the lumber stable on the farm of Carl S. Gall, above Thurmont Thursday night about 11 o'clock. The total loss is estimated at $500. An Indian motorcycle, belonging to Harry Ecker, of Frederick, and Pogue lunch on the Gall farm, was in the burned stable.

The fire was discovered by Mr. Gall who was walking down the road and hastened to the house to give the alarm to neighbors. A creek runs near the stable and women and children secured to save the chicken house, hog pen and tenant house. The main out-buildings on the farm were not in any danger.

The origin of the blaze is unknown. Mr. Fogle and son were away at the time of the fire.

Cashtown Barn Blaze.

Prompt action on the part of Cashtown citizens saved the barn of H. L. Breem from destruction by fire on Friday afternoon. The blaze was started in the lower part of the structure and had made quite headway when discovered. An alarm was sounded, and by means of a plug stream, the blaze was soon put out. The barn may damaged by fire and water. The fire company made quite a piece of activity. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a little boy playing with matches.

SHOT DOG

Suspicious Brindle Ball Said to Have Bitten Several Persons.

Chief of Police Emmons this morning shot a brindle ball dog belonging to Harry Thompson. The dog is said to have bitten several persons. If the police are notified of any such cases the head will be sent to the State laboratory to find whether or not the animal was suffering from rabies.

TRY TO PROTECT DOG CHASED DEER

Residents of South Mountain Short Tramp Dogs Several Deer Killed After Being Chased Fore-t Ranger Sews Up Wounds.

Since the close of the deer season a number of male and female deer have been killed by hounds, of deer that hunt in the Blue Ridge Mountain range, and dogs. When a deer is found they can it until it becomes exhausted and then they attack it with their teeth and rip its flesh until it dies from the wounds.

Mr. Harvey Thomas, a forest ranger in charge of the new state fire tower on the Caledonia reserve northeast of Mont Alto, a few days ago rescued a doe that three tramp dogs chased into the wagonshed of Bart Riley.

With assistance Thomas drove the persistently dogs away and then applied restoratives to the bedraggled doe. When it revived Ranger Thomas carried it to the woods and set the animal further security. It was, however, found that the wounds inflicted by the chase to recover and died the next day.

The female deer which have become so frequent and numerous in the past month in their relation to the Caledonia reserve lowlands are unusually tame and, curious. Some are in the passing horses, draw close to teams. This makes them easier prey for vicious dogs. The protection of game in Adams county is being undertaken by the Adams County Game Protective Association, which will operate in the Mission "District" of the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, will be a state reserve with a great breeding place for game birds and other animals for the state of San Francisco.
